HK And The Law

EW chief justices of Hongkong have delivered such a thoughtful, constructive and comprehensive analysis of the intimate and important relationship law and the community as that given by Mr Justice Hogan at Thursday's opening of 1957 assizes. The general public as well as all sections of the legal profession should be able to derive considerable inspiration from the address, as well as a deeper appreciation of the value of merging even closer the Western concepts of law and of individual freedom with

Chinese culture and ability, The Chief Justice's philosophical observations occupied a rightful place in his address, but not at the expense of more hard, prac tical matters. Thus the Colony learns with satisfaction that positive action IKE READY is to be taken this year to solve the problem of congested courts and to do away with the unsatisfactory system of mass pleas. COMMENT OF SOCIALISTS UP IN ARMS

Deplore Method Of Choosing New PM QUEEN'S POSITION

Signs of a political row appeared tonight over the way in which

Queen Elizabeth was forced yesterday into the delicate position of having to choose between Mr Harold Macmillan and Mr R. A. Butler for Prime Minister. Labour Party chiefs, at a specially-called meeting of their "shadow cabinet" - parliamentary committee - expressed the fear that the Crown had been brought into party politics "in a most-undesirable way."

Speakers, including leftwinger Aneurin Bevan, complained that the Conservative Party had imposed on the Queen a delicate task she should not have been asked to discharge.

A T the beginning of the year it is the fashion for film reviewers to invite criticism in their turn by nominating what they consider to be the ten best films of the previous year.

I've put the task off as long as possible, but the second week of January is as far as it can be stretched and here is my selection:-

FIRST: "The King and I".

This most unusual musical was beautifully photographed, lavishly presented and for contrast had as its principals two such discimilar characters as the barbarle King of Siam and the prim English school-mistress. The songs were well delivered and the music was played with an absence of unnecessary frills.

SECOND: "The Deep Blue Sea".

The picture that showed with what justification Kenneth More can be hailed as one of the British screen's foremost actors. He had the sure and accomplised support of Vivien Leigh and Emlyn Williams, it is true, but his own brilliant playing of the breezy, irresponsible pilot had the confident nir that demonstrated that he can now stand alone.

THIRD: "Guys and Dolls"

This musical did not enjoy the success in Hongkong it deserved. Very different in type from "The King and I" its racy style was probably too fast in pace for Chinese audiences and dialogue unintelligible to most SIXTH: "The Man With but Runyon fans, It is for this reason that I have not given it the first place, that to me, it merits. FOURTH: "Summer Madness".

Whether or not one likes Katherine Hepburn's clipped style and her lack of the more obvious manifestations of what the screen considers sex appeal, it is impossible to deny that she is every inch un actress. Her sharpness was toned down considerably in counter with the handsome Rossano Brazzi was made quite believable. his courage.

This was a delightful piece of whimsy from Alfred Hitchcock that possibly had the best colouring of the year. The warm Autumn shades of Vermont were a joy to see, and the off-beat humour of John Forsythe, Shirley MacLaine and Mildred Natwick, plus a highly original story, placed another feather in the cap of this competent director.

You may not have admired EIGHTH: "Private's Progress".

As with "Guys and Dolls" this picture had a limited appeal in Hongkong but to anyone who relished a long hearty joke at the Army's expense it was a riot. The highest marks were due to Richard Attenborough as one of the most likable black marketeers ever to disgrace the scrvice. It also did a lot to restore Dennis Price to his former position.

NINTH: "Cockleshell Heroes".

Blind Jazz Pianist's Father In A Plight

Refuses Help From Rich Son

London. white-haired old man whose world-famous son earns £80,000 a year is in a home for old people in need of care and attention.

Eighty-three-year-old James Shearing could be living in luxury in America with his blind son, jazz planist George Shearing, but he won't let any of his family help him.

Mr Shearing is in the chronic sick ward of London County Council's Newington Lodge Welfare Home, Walworth.

He has £2 a week retirement pension and 5s. a week from his former employers. This all goes to the L.C.C., who return him 7s. 6d. a week for pocket-money.

Marry in your teens, and you reduce your chances of lifelong wedded bliss.

In most cases, youngsters still In their teems have not the judgment of persons in the twenties Therefore, they are more liable to make mistakes in the selection of what should be a lifelong partner,

That is why, when parents decide that a couple should marry merely to legitimise a child, trouble lies ahead, Welfare workers whose job

MORAL VALUES

And the parents of both boy and girl should search their consciences, asking themselves Offic question:

"Where have we gone wrong?" It is not enough for them to have said once, or even many times: "Don't you behave like this . . . like him . . . like

They must know their sons and daughters, and do their best to ensure that they have a sufficient sense of moral values to after them clear of danger.

It is the parents--not the church, not the school---who are responsible for the moral training of those they brought into the world.

Where young marriages are not influenced by mistakes, they are generally successful. For they are the true love matches. unaffeeled by the nagging thought: "Am I getting left 'on the shelf?"

Young people in most countries are developing more quickly these days, of course. At twenty or even carlier, many are old enough to cast loose all 'apron strings' and stand entirely on their own feet. For these, an early marriage brings extra years of happiness, admittedly, That couple whom you saw cuddling in the back row of the cinema the other night, they may have looked as if they had only just left school. But did you know they were getting married in a month or two? They know their own minds. They are not frightened of taking decisions and of carrying them out.

DECISIONS

MUST say it never occurred to me that there were pirates on the Ganges. But there are, and wnen I met the owner of the boat which was to ferry me and my Lana-Rover down the river from Bhagalpur, in North-East India, he said I couldn't leave yet.

I remonstrated. I was already late, I said, and was quite prepared to run the risk. But no, he had his responsibilities.

It was then four o'clock in the afternoon, and I should have to wait until two o'clock the following morning, when the dangerous area would be clear of marauders.

So I went back to the club at Bhagalpur to wait.

* Just before 2 a.m. I arrived at the ghat. I had loaded the car on to the little poat carlier in the evening. It only remained to rouse the crew.

Triumph of new self-winding watch

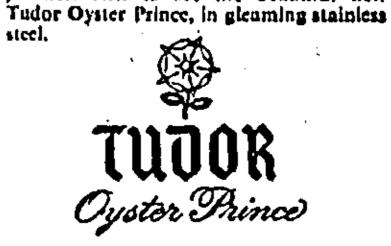

ROLEX of Genova: Tudor 'Oyster Prince specially for men who want a self-winding watch of high quality—without paying the highest price.

To prove the Tudor's perfect efficiency, Itolex devised a series of tests in which it was exposed to the arch-enemy of the ordinary self-winding watch, ribration.

In one, the Trial of Destruction, the Tudor was strapped to the wrist of a workman operating a pneumatic drill for a total of 30 hours. The invincible Tudor emerged from the ordeal quite unharmed, ticking as accurately as ever.

Two famous Rolex features—the water-proof Oyster case, and the "rotor" selfwinding mechanism'-- make the Tudor Prince a miracle of precision. If your aspirations are higher than your bank balance, go to your nearest Rolex jeweller. Ask to see the beautiful new

ARMOUR

TF there was anything Vickers' boss Sir George Edwards was proud of this week, apart from the knighthood he got in the New Year Honours list, it was his order from Trans-Canada Airliners for £23 million worth of Vanguards.

The transaction made history in three ways. It was the first time a British aircraft firm had received a substantial order for an airliner while it was still on the drawing boards. It will be 18 month's before the Vanguard's ready. And the Vanguard is one of the few aircraft in postwar Britain to have been financed from start to finish as a purely private venture. Finally, the order makes Trans-Canada Britain's biggest dollar customer since they have already ordered £88 million more of the best-selling Viscounts. Some American aircraft manufacturers have encered gently at Britain's sirliners. How angry Churchill made them?

BY JOHN REDFERN

C IR WINSTON CHUR-CHILL began argument by reviling Cromwell in his second volume of history, native to anarchy.

"THE NEW WORLD". Cromwell in the hero of Macaulay and Carlyle. The weighty Dr G. M. Trevelyan considers him a great patriot. Many see him as the man who saved our parliamentary system. Brave Oliver, It seems, had a "smoky soul"

THE TREATMENT

QIR WINSTON, who deals gently indeed with Charles 1, really gives Oliver Cromwell the treatment. Listen. "By the end of 1648 all was over. Cromwell was Dictator. ... The struggle to bring about a constitutional and limited monarchy had led only to the autocracy of the sword." At Drogheda, Cromwell used overwhelming strength with merciless wickedness, debased the standards of human conduct, and "sensibly darkened the journey of mankind."

To all this, Mr Foot retorts: "I can only recall the words of John Bright writing on John Stuart Mill, 'The worst of these great thinkers is that they so often have been wrong, "Cromwell did not start the Civil War.' He came into a

Who volunteers among the reviewers? Hardly a man steps forward. The Scotsman is critical, but critical because "Scottish history is only on the inargin of Sir Winston's field of vision, and his touch in it is quite imsure,"

The historians are brooding, and some are restive. I get the impression that these think Sir Winston has been rough with Well, then, is Cromwell to be made into a monster because Sir Winston speaks and writes wonderful English?

My question is a serious one, For Miss C. V. Wedgwood, authority on Cromwell's period who thinks Sir Winston has been extremely just, adds: "Of course, Churchill's view of Cromwell will be reflected in the ideas of toleration he future textbooks. He is so (COPYRIGHT)

It must be admitted that the only permanent injury he suffered from his schooling was the impairment of his hearing, but his subsequent career showed that he had all the qualities needed for success at school in such abundance that his failure to achieve it is an apt commentary on his treatment there.

He then failed for the Indian Civil Service, and to his surprise passed into the Army. ' He served happily in India for nearly ten years, a serious soldier with a taste for adventure, when suddenly, to the amazement of all who knew him, he became infatuated with a worthless woman, and abandoned his career to follow her to England.

Sir Frederick Lugard — Governor of Hongkong 1907-1912 — sailed penniless to Africa but became the founder of an Empire based on Indirect Rule.

ANNUAL TAIPAN'S GAME IS TODAY'S MAIN RUGGER ATTRACTION

By "PAK LO"

There is a break in the Hexangular Tournament this afternoon, and instead of the usual week-end games we have the annual fixture known as the "Taipan's Game." This is always between the Commander British Forces XV and a XV representing a well-known local Taipan, invariably, of course, one who takes an interest in local rugby, and surely none better could have been asked to do the honours this afternoon than the Hon. Michael W. Turner.

"Mike" Turner is well known to local rugby 'fans, and especially to Club members, as a great supporter, in both word and deed, of the advancement of local rugby, and though his days as a player are now long past, he has continued to take a marked interest in the game.

YOUR BIRTHDAY ... By STELLA

SATURDAY, JANUARY 12

DORN today, you are more than half the occamer and visionary D who has great ambitions, yet healtates a little too long before putting his ideas into action. This, unfortunately, can result in seeing others crap the turvest while you have to take a back sent and content your, eff with thinking up a new idea. To carn a practical success from your native originality, learn to put your plans into immediate operation and, in that fashion, get the jump on your competitors.

You, too, have a divided nature. At the office you are "all business' and very reldom let anyone ree the softer side of your nature. You are a harsh taskmaster and expect to see work under your supervision done quickly and efficiently. You have the ability to put the ideas of others into motion. Learn to do the same thing with your own plans, if you want to reach a personal success. But if you are content to help another reach the top and merely store in the material gain and yet get none of the credit, then go right along with only that in mind. It is up to you to make the choice early in life. Remember, though, that you have the capabilities for being the top boss if you want At enough!

At home, you are toying and affectionate, fond of your children and even over-indulgent in giving them everything they want. When at home with the family, no one would ever dream how stern and exacting you can be at the office. You women, incidentally, are espathle of running a home and family successfully while having a career on the sade. You seem to have plenty of energy for both sand even some to space

DORN today, you have an emotional and high-strung tempera-ID ment which has unpuspected depths, hidden by a superficial gaiety. You seldom seem to be working hard, yet you marrige to achieve results in an astonishingly successful fashion. You are always in the midst of some scheme or plan which depends upon the utmost secrecy—so you think—for its success. You are never happier than when juggling events so that they come out as you think they should. It is to be Hoped that this talent for intrigue won't enmesh you in something that even your ingenuity cannot unrayel.

You are more than normally successful in business and probably will make a fertune before you are 40. If you don't it will be simply because you don't want a fortune-you want something else more! That might be a certain job which you believe will bring prestige, and for that you are willing to let the material gains go by the board. You enjoy having power over others, even more, perhaps, than having a lot of money. You feel that you can always make enough of that to satisfy your fairly simple desires.

You have a magnetic personality and a great deal of social charm when you see fit to use it. You have the ability to "charm the birds off the trees," as the saying goes. But this talent, too, depends upon whether you think it worth your while to utilize dt. Use a little more heart and less intellect and you will find more happiness.

Among these born on this date were: Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase, noted jurist; Hugh Orr, inventor; Charles J. Fox, British statesman; William C. Winslow, archaeologist; Samuel Woodworth, author; John Davis, early Massachusetts governor; 27. Vegetable national 7 (5) and Horatio Alger, author.

PETROL But Unable To Channel It To Europe

New York, Jan. 11. The US Secretary of the Interior, Mr Seaton, announced today that 28,200,000 barrels of United States oil were shipped to Western Europe between November 1 and January 2 to help ease the shortage caused by the Suez crisis.

New York a report showing tant Attorney-General, disclosed that 16,700,000 barrels of crude this but said it was a "routine and 11,500,000 barrels of inquiry" and there was no such products as petrol and dis- evidence so far of any contillate fuel olls made up the spiracy.

In Washington the Justice Department's Anti-Trust Division was investigating recent increases in the price of crude oil to determine if any nationwide conspiracy was involved.

United Nations Assembly Unanimous

United Nations, Jan. 11. The United Nations General Assembly today unanimously adopted a resolution by 18 countries, including the United States and the Soviet Union on future relations between the UN and the International Atomic Energy Agency.

The Assembly also raililed by abstentions, the resolution on Koren, adopted by the Political Committee.

The Assembly then ratifled by 58 votes to eight, with four abstentions, a resolution submitted by the special Political Committee. The resolution embodied an Argentine suggestion for a convention relating to consultation procedure in the United Nations. The Soviet delegate opposed the resolution, saying it was contrary to the Charter and that it was aimed at by-passing the principles of unanimity of the great powers. The Assembly adjourned without fixing a date for its next session.—France-

Worry Producers

The domestic petrol situation is worrying oil producers. especially in Texas, a major producing area. Surplus stocks are considered too high and producers are anxious to channel more petrol to Europe. As crude oil la divided up into its various products, petrol stocks are rising.

A survey of the petrol situation in today's Wall Street Journal said: "Hopes that oilshort European countries might help syphon off some of the United States gasoline excess seem to be fading."

"The reasons are not hard to find. In Europe, gasoline represents only about a fourth of total petroleum consumption, compared with 43 per cent in the United States," the journal added, "That means gasoline rationing there pinches less hard than it would here. Moreover, any gasoline the Europeans are willing to buy usually is the low 67 votes to eight, with nine octane fuel for use in fourcylinder European cars. The United States gasoline surplus is largely in higher octane fuels, suited to higher-powered American cars."—China Mail Special.

Burned Transferred In Storm

Boston, Jan. 11. Four seamen burned in a ship explosion off the coast of Newfoundland were transferred to a Coast Guard cutter today in a small boat that risked being swamped in raging

A motor surf boat made four trips from the cutter Chincoteague to the Finnish freighter at Funtrader, ceturning each time with one of the burned men on a stretcher. Two of the men were reported "burned over their entire bodies" and in critical condition.

They were given medical treatment by a doctor aboard the cutter, the Coast Guard said. The cutter was expected to dock at St Johns, Newfoundland, the nearest port, at midnight tomorrow.

The cutter had been unable to come alongside of the freighter because of the rough water. Until the transfer was attempted, the two vessels had been proceeding side by side waiting for the seas to moderate.

The Const Guard said the identity of the injured men had been learned here.— United Press.
